TEQUILA BAR

Tequila is a unique Mexican spirit distilled from the Agave Tequilana plant commonly known as the Blue Weber Agave. This plant can be found in and around the city of Tequila, northwest of Guadalajara and in the highlands of the North Western State of Jalisco.

Similar to the Champagne region of France, only spirits distilled from the Blue Weber Agave in these regions can rightly bear the name Tequila.

There are two types of tequila available on the market, 100% Blue Agave and mixtos. The latter uses no less than 51% agave in its production, with the rest of the alcohol content coming from sugars like glucose and fructose. This type of distillation produces a tequila flavoured alcohol instead of the real deal. lucky for you we don't sell mixtos here!

Now 100% Blue Agave is the good stuff. Smooth and unique, this is not what you did shots of in college with salt and limes. The production of quality tequila is comparable to wine or whisky production. The agave plant takes on characteristics of the soil it is growing in. Highland Tequila (Grand Centenario, Don Julio, Milagro) are known to be sweeter and fruitier tasting while their lowland counterparts (Herradura, Cabo Wabo, El Jimador) are known to have more earthy or herbal palates.

We didn't forget about Tequila's country cousin Mezcal. contrary to popular belief, Mezcal does not contain mescaline; so there will be no fear and loathing at Yo Amo Tacos.

Produced primarily in the Oaxaca region it is made from the heart of the maguey plant, which is a form of agave. Like Tequila, Mezcal is aged for different lengths of time in different types of vessels to create unique flavour characteristics. Highly varied, some brands even add herbs and spices to alter flavours, though most remain untouched.

A great deal goes into the production of tequila and an aficionado can appreciate the aromas, mouth feel, bouquet and finish on a quality product.

The aging process is also an important aspect of the development of aromas and complexity of flavour in tequilas.

There are 4 main stages of the aging process and each produces a distinct style of Tequila.

THE Blancos & Platas

Blanco (white) or Plata (silver) this is a clear spirit that is bottled and stored immediately after production.

1800 Silver Tequila 1oz - $8

Tequila owned by the Jose Cuervo brand. It is made with 100% blue agave, aged in oak for 15 days. The first officially licensed tequila manufacturer was Jose Antonio Cuervo of Jalisco, Mexico, 1758. Shortly thereafter, the sale of tequila was banned. In 1795 the ban was lifted and 1800 is the year when tequila was put in oak barrels.

1800 Coconut Tequila 1oz - $8

Signature double-distilled 1800 Silver Tequila is infused with ripe coconut flavour. Sweet and medium bodied with a tropical palate. This tequila is delicious on the rocks or mixed with pineapple juice.

Leyenda Del Milagro Silver 1oz - $8

You'll find spiky alcohol spices, a big "floral" cloud and a lot of herbaceous notes in this un-aged tequila. But don't look for a subtlety or a complex balance. Milagro Silver has all of these flavours turned up to "11" on the dial and they're not interested in your sensitive palate.

Sauza Hornito Plata 1oz - $8

Hornito Plata is double distilled for an ultra-smooth taste; has floral and citrus aromas and has silky and medium bodies with flavours of bell pepper, jasmine and herbs.

Follow your tequila with a Chaser, a Sangrita, a mix of fresh orange juice, lime juice, tomato, chipotle and seasonings.
